

Alert Solutions Partners with eChalk to Offer Consolidated Communication and Website Management Solution to K-12 Schools

New Jersey - Alert Solutions and eChalk have joined forces to bring k-12 schools the most intuitive and robust tools designed to centralize communications across multiple platforms. This new offering allows for seamless administration of vital school services such as content management for school websites, parent communication and emergency alerts - resulting in a comprehensive community engagement suite.

“This partnership represents a convenient package of all key communication channels,” said Daniel Watts, eChalk Founder. “We are proud to be working with Alert Solutions and its parent company SwiftReach, with their highly reliable proprietary technology and history of successfully delivering emergency notifications.”

eChalk is the only k-12 platform that brings school websites, learning management, and group collaboration tools together into one simple, organized online environment.

“We are pleased to bring this best-of-breed content management offering to our customers,” said Kevin Alward, Alert Solutions CEO. “Providing educators with instant access to important tools while continuing to expand our wide range of communication solutions is vital to the future of our organization.”

Alert Solutions’ award-winning school communication technology and growing number of strategic partnerships in education have been contributing factors in its success.

Alert Solutions is a subsidiary of SwiftReach Networks and currently serves thousands of school districts and nearly 3 million students worldwide.
